FAQ

How many displays do I need?

To display the full Copic Sketch marker range of 358 colors, two displays are required. One display holds 180 markers.

How do I know which color goes where in the display?

For optimal assembly, we are sending you the color strips with the corresponding color codes enclosed. You can stick them to the front of your display and thus always see which color needs refilling.

Can the displays be plugged together or connected?

The displays are not connected at the factory, so it is up to you as a retailer to position the units (e.g. all horizontally next to each other. In some shops, staff have stuck the units together to make them last better. You are of course welcome to do this. Tape is not included in the set.
